A wide choice of colours ...

Clare established her business in 1982 when it became apparent that there was a need for made-to-measure knitwear. Not everyone could find mass produced garments to fit, and others wanted something that was different and original. Some wanted to design their own and have their ideas transformed into a wearable product. The business started off in craft fairs, progressed via a shop to a mail order business operating on the Internet.

Clare uses natural fibres such as wool and cotton, and caters for men, women and children. Most garments are machine knitted, but she also does some hand knitting and crochet as time allows. In order to extend her range and to stock something for everyone, she also has items such as Pachamama chunky handknits.

Clare has developed her keen interest in bell ringing to produce a bespoke range of knitwear for ringers. This is an example of how specialist interest groups can be catered for.

Everything is available by mail order. Digital images can be emailed showing any of the other designs in Clare's large range which are not shown on the web site or in this brochure, eg Pachamama knitwear. If something is to be made to order, samples of yarns or of the pattern can be sent to match colours with other garments. Please write, phone or email for details.
